Medals Given to Miss Murray's Dancing Pupils for Proficiency—Highland Fling Danced Prettily.

A "shadowland" minuet, with twelve diminutive dancers, opened the carnival held by Miss Estelle Murray's dancing school in the Arcade ballroom Friday. Following the minuet came twenty-two numbers, including rhythmic, toe, waltz, Hungarian, clog, and many other styles of dances, among others a charming Highland fling danced in costume by Miss Sadie Lipp, who has been assisting Miss Murray, gave an exhibition of toe dancing, and Miss Murray sang "Cupid and I," receiving thereafter an ovation from her pupils.

Frederick J. Rice, president of the Columbia Heights Citizens' Association, presented medals to Misses Thelma Griswold, Isabella Stearns, Mary Vaccaro, Lillian Kohn, and Dorothy Elhers for proficiency. Among those taking part in the program were: Ethel Sherby, Gladys Harwarth, Catherine Weckel, Geraldine Harvey, Marian O'Connor, Mary Vaccaro, Thelma Crismond, Isabelle Stearns, Anna Mitchell, Mildred Talbot, Bertram Robinson, Gustave Weckel, Lillian Kahn, Martha Louise Dougherty, Catherine Dougherty, Arthur Murray, Sylvia Sherby, Alice Crismond, Edith Talbot, Louise Belt, Mary Miller, Florence King, Mary Louise Stafford, Bernadine Miller, Genevieve Nelson, Charlotte Plankinton, Anna Mitchell, Dorothy Elhers, Doris Lennox, Dorothy Miller, Nancy Talbot, and Evelyn Becker.

SINGERS IN "MARTHA" SCORE BIG SUCCESS

Audience Delighted with Excellent Staging and with Fresh and Pleasant Voices.

Lovers of music who failed to attend one of the three performances of Von Lotow's opera "Martha" at the Belasco Theater last week missed a musical treat. The staging was excellent and the voices fresh and pleasing. Albert W. Harned brought the cast to a high standard of finish, and at the last performance, Wednesday evening, it would have been difficult to detect any amateurish flaws. The large audience was particularly enthusiastic, and at the end of the fourth act there were many curtain calls, and the director was compelled to make a short address of acknowledgment. Miss Viola Louis Schipper sang and acted the prima donna role in fine style. Many plaudits. Miss Jessie Masters, who sang the music allotted to "Nancy," displayed a beautiful contralto voice of good range and much power. Her solo, "For Love I Pine," found high favor with the audience and she was enthusiastically encored.

Although suffering from a severe throat trouble, Harry Stevens sustained the tenor role splendidly. The two professionals in the cast, John H. Phillips and Charles Meyers, scored triumphs in their comedy parts.

ADMIRAL DEWEY BOOSTS BOOM FOR ROOSEVELT

(By the Sun News Service.) Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 27.—Admiral Dewey gave the Roosevelt boom a boost today. That is the view taken of a letter made public here, in which the admiral corroborated a concrete example of the doctrine of preparedness as furnished by Roosevelt when he was President and when the Venezuelan incident occurred. Admiral Dewey's letter was written to Henry A. Wise Wood, who resigned from membership in the naval consulting board to settle a point that had been raised regarding the sending of the fleet to West Indian waters when trouble was brewing between Venezuela and Germany.

BOSTIC UNDER ARREST.

Virginia Authorities Turn Suspected Forger Over to District Police. Martin K. Bostic, 41, was arrested by Alexandria County officials at his home near Mount Ida, Va., Friday and turned over to the local police on a charge of having forged checks amounting to more than $1,000 on the account of Mrs. Annie M. Dawson, of the Astoria apartments, Fourth and G streets northwest. The police say Bostic "advised" Mrs. Dawson to deposit in a bank the $2,000 she received from railroad for the killing of her husband. Later, she withdrew $700 and placed it in another bank.

TORPEDO PATROL IS FORMED HERE

Yacht Owners and G. W. U. Students Organize Potomac Division for Defense.

The patriotism of the citizens of Washington was manifested again yesterday when more than a score of yacht owners and university students interested in nautical science, met in the medical building at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon, June 12, officers will be elected and a program for the summer mapped out.

As soon as sufficient funds have been raised to secure the necessary equipment, experimental work on the Potomac will be begun, he said. The organization already is on a sound footing, having $500 in its treasury, contributed by sustaining members. It also has three small cruisers available for experimental work. In addition, there will be instruction classes held during the winter.

Dr. Hopkins said Washington is one of the first cities along either coast to take up the idea, and it is expected other cities will organize similar corps within the next few weeks. Those associated with Dr. Hopkins in the work of organizing the corps are Prof. Charles E. Munroe, Robert B. Roosevelt, Frederic L. Huidekoper, and Henry H. Ward. Among the speakers at yesterday's meeting were Prof. Willis Moore, former chief of the Weather Bureau; Prof. George W. Littlehales and L. P. Clephane.

These two men are Col. Robert M. Thompson, president of the Navy League, and Arthur Deerin Call, secretary of the American Peace Society. The subject of their debate will be: "What National Duties for Preparedness?" The meeting will be held at 3 o'clock. The public has been invited to attend without charge.

MACHINIST IN U. S. NAVY YARD TALKS

Says, "After Spending Lots of Money I Found Relief in Drecto."

Our bodies as well as our homes require thorough cleansing and sanitation. The headaches, dizziness, gas and bloating of the stomach, coated tongue, foul breath, pains in back and limbs, general "run-down" condition or any of the symptoms of sickness that you are experiencing are Nature's signals that the organs of the body need overhauling, cleaning out and toning up. These outward signs are only the "effects" and there is to be an underlying "cause." There is no remedy on the market that can accomplish this as well as Drecto, the herbal system tonic. The action is remarkable in all cases where the run-down system needs rebuilding, cleaning out and toning up, or where it is being weakened by liver, kidney or bladder troubles.

Recent testimonials have proven that this notable remedy has been remarkably successful as a tissue builder, vitalizer and a builder-up of wasted organs. Below we print the signed statement of a highly respected Washington citizen who has for ten years been employed in the U. S. Navy Yard. He is J. R. Stephenson, of 110 Fourth street southeast, who says: "For many years I have suffered from constipation, headaches, indigestion, biliousness, and could not sleep well at night. After eating I would have a very uncomfortable feeling like I was bloated, and gas would form. My liver was very inactive, and I have spent lots of money on different medicines trying to get relief from my troubles, and finally decided to give Drecto a trial, as it was being so highly recommended by Washington people who had used it. Right from the first I seemed to improve. I relieved my indigestion, headaches, constipation and made the liver take on new life. It also put a stop to the bloating and gas in my stomach. I think Drecto is a splendid remedy and am glad to add my words of praise for it. Drecto is purely vegetable, being an extract from roots, herbs, barks and berries from many medicinal plants. It gives prompt relief in many cases and a continued use gives permanent results. Sold in all the O'Donnell Drug Stores, Bury's in Anacostia, Allen's in Alexandria. Ask for Drecto and accept no other. Price $1.00.—Adv.

SEEN AND HEARD BY GEORGE MINER

Special Correspondent of The Washington Herald.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

New York, May 27.—Outside of those in the business, very few people realize what an enormous amount of fabrics is manufactured and used every year. I refer particularly to fabrics for garments. Ten thousand yards seem to the layman a great quantity of clothing material, but it is only a sample and not much more than a day's output of a big factory.

This was brought forcibly to mind in a conversation I had today with Mr. A. C. Tate, head of the Tate Electrolytic Waterproofing Company, of 17 Battery Place. The company is just completing a large factory in Jersey City and another in Montreal, where it will waterproof fabrics by a new electric process. The operation is a very delicate one, and does not change the weight, appearance, or feel of the goods, nor does it cost them. Mr. Tate showed me a piece of cheesecloth which had been waterproofed by this process. In every respect it seemed to be a piece of ordinary cheesecloth, but when I poured a glass of water on it not a drop went through.

Mr. William Rockefeller is M. Tate's financial backer in this enterprise, and I may add there is no stock for sale. The factories will be ready to start work in about two months.

"Many people," said Mr. Tate, "have asked me where I expected to get yardage enough to keep these two factories going. There is no trouble about that. Our factories are capable of waterproofing 5,000 yards a day. We have already contracted to their full capacity and agreed to put a plant in a factory in New Jersey, where they manufacture nothing but cutthroat for men's wear, and where they turn out nearly 10,000 yards a day.

"A friend of mine in Canada does the purchasing of khaki for the English army. The specifications say the cloth must be waterproofed, but the proofing is done in a very perfunctory way. Rub the cloth in your fingers and the proofing disappears. Still it's the best they can do in the great hurry necessary, and the specifications are complied with. I don't mean to infer that there is any graft in it."

50,000,000 Yards in One Order.

"When this friend heard of our process he came to me and said how sorry he was not to have known about it before, as he would have been glad to have given us the order to waterproof fifty million yards on a recent contract, but that it was now too late, as the order was out. Of course I thanked him for his kindness in wishing to help us along, but I also said:

"Do you know how long it would have taken us to fill that order in this Canadian factory working our full force day and night? It would take us just twenty-three years, and I don't believe you would agree to wait that long for the delivery of the goods."

"So, you see, there is no danger of a shortage of yardage for us to be fearful of."

Mr. Tate brings word from Montreal that Mr. William Cheney, better known as "Big Bill," is preparing for another dash to remote parts of the world and arming himself with a bundle of passports therefor. Mr. Cheney has been at his home in Montreal now for at least three months, and that is an extremely long period for him to spend in any one spot on the globe.

There is no more big-hearted, kindly-natured or genial gentleman in the two hemispheres than Mr. William Cheney. He is an international character. No man has the wanderlust more strongly developed than he. You are liable to meet him anywhere that civilization has modes of transportation—on the upper reaches of the Nile, on the lower Mississippi, on the Trans-Andean railway, in the Savoy hotel in London or in the legation compound in Peking.

Coming down the Nile, once, the boatman told me that on the preceding trip there had been a big American who insisted on giving expensive cigars to every one he met.

"That sounds like a description of Bill Cheney," I remarked.

"Yus, yus, sah," that name he is—Meester Cheney. He is good cigar man."

For it is one of his fads, always to carry his pockets full of fifty-cent cigars and offer them to every one he meets as though they were cigarettes. I remember once in Paris he suffered from toothache. It seems that there was a dentist in Pittsburgh who had done work for him and whom he liked, so nothing would do but he must jump on the next boat for New York and rush to Pittsburgh to have that tooth pulled. For no stronger reason or for no reason at all he would pack up at an hour's notice and start around the world.

It was Mr. Cheney's father who founded the express business in Canada and when he died left Big Bill a very large fortune. Big Bill had never smoked a cigar or taken a drink until he was 40 years old and then he believed he could indulge moderately in these vices without doing his constitution any harm.

Harmon and Courcy struck it rich when they opened up the big oil gusher at Tampico. A short time ago, Harmon sold out his interest in it and went into other business. He is a very large man, weighing probably 250 pounds. When I met Courcy today he was bemoaning Harmon's fall from grace in his new enterprise.

"What do you think my former partner has gone into now? Just think a great big man like him, a giant who ought to be building bridges or Dreadnoughts or something suitable to his size, has gone to manufacturing insignificant little button snaps for gloves and such things. Why, it's preposterous that he should associate himself with such a trifling little article! All the same, I wish I was in with him on it. There are millions in it."

T. R. BOOM IS AID TO HUGHES

Political Washington Thinks the Colonel's Talk Has Strengthened Jurist.

With only eleven days remaining before the Republican national convention will meet to nominate a Presidential candidate and devise a platform, party leaders are still in doubt as to which of the dozen or more available is to be chosen for first honors. Although the past week recorded a recrudescence of the Roosevelt boom and a strengthening of the Hughes candidacy, neither is absolutely assured of the nomination, while all of the favorite sons have abandoned hope. Political Washington believes that the noise made by the Roosevelt boomers in the past week has served only to boost the Hughes candidacy, and that only the unexpected can prevent the nomination of New York's member of the United States Supreme Court.

All but 16 of the 985 delegates who will have seats in the Republican convention have been elected. West Virginia's delegation of 16 members will be chosen on June 4, the day before the Chicago convention meets.

In times gone by the leaders have been able to tell with almost mathematical precision ten days before the convention just who would be nominated for the Presidency, but in this instance they admit that they are up in the air and in doubt as to the man who is to be named as the standard-bearer.

The prediction is made here that on the first ballot Mr. Hughes will show more strength than any other candidate. This despite the fact on the surface that only a few delegates are pledged to Col. Roosevelt, and yet the leaders appear to be convinced that he will have more votes in the convention than his enemies imagine.

Less than 300 delegates, far short of a majority, are pledged to the eight favorite sons.

TO GRADUATE 100 STUDENTS.

National Law School Plans Exercises for June 12.

On the evening of June 1 the joint alumni and student banquet will take place at the New Exhibit. On Saturday, June 3, there will be a meeting at the University Club of the National University Law School Alumni Chapter of the Sigma Nu Phi.

The Measure of Value in a Tire

VALUE in a tire must be measured by the service that tire renders. The fact that more G & J 'G' Treads, which are thoroughly effective anti-skid tires, are giving better service than do ordinary casings, proves their value.

Knowing this fact, we unhesitatingly recommend that the next tire you purchase be a G & J 'G' Tread.
